WHO IS IT FOR?

Our master's program is aimed at professionals preferably involved in projects with experience across various economic sectors, who seek to develop competencies to assume leadership and project management roles in complex environments. It is ideal for those in semi-senior or senior positions who wish to strengthen their skills in agile methods, leadership, and strategy.

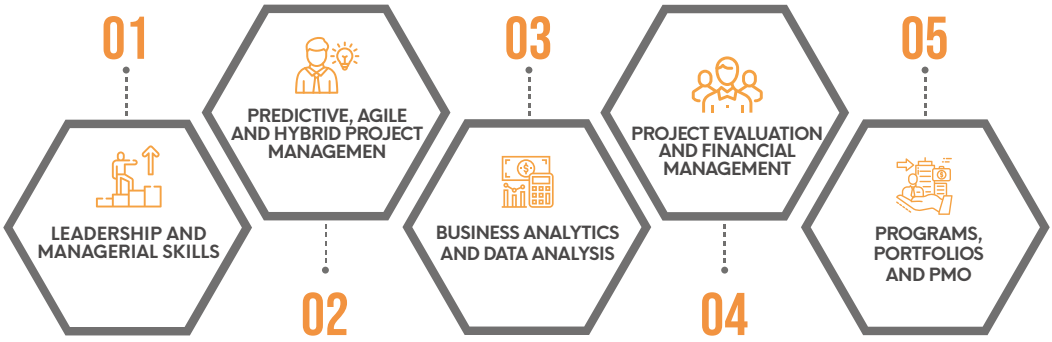

VALUE PROPOSITION

Strategic management of complex projects
Combines project management with business vision and strategic thinking. You will move from executing initiatives to leading programs and portfolios aligned with organizational objectives, taking on leadership roles in environments of high complexity and uncertainty.

Mastery of predictive, agile, and hybrid approaches
Learn to select and combine the appropriate approach for each project. You will master predictive, agile, and hybrid methods supported by analytics and data science to make better decisions and deliver real value in any type of project or sector.

International accreditation
Earn a Master's degree awarded by ESPOL, internationally accredited by the GAC of the Project Management Institute (PMI) and AACSB. A globally prestigious credential that enhances your professional mobility and career progression.
